

Tureluurs (Birdwatching Frenzy)

To Figure Out:

It is the year 1899, and at a secret location in the Netherlands, a group gathers with only one mission: to preserve the birds of the Netherlands. After a long, harsh winter, spring has arrived: it is time to observe! The bird season has opened, and you are sent out to “Capture the Birds of the Fatherland” with your eyes and immortalize them for the first edition of the Dutch Bird Guide! But be warned... this will not happen without resistance.

Objective of the Game:

The goal of this cooperative game is to collect at least one bird from each bird family in the bird guide before the bird season ends. You do this by using your Tuururen (Observation Hours) wisely and preparing yourself well for all events that may occur in the forest. In addition to collecting the birds in the bird guide, it is also important to manage your time efficiently. Remaining Tuururen (Observation Hours) are very valuable!

Game Dynamics:

During your expedition, you will encounter four different types of cards, each with its own distinctive effect.

- Birds (with a feather on the back): The goal is to collect these using Tuururen (Observation Hours).
- Tuururen (Observation Hours): You use these to collect birds or to influence the game.
- Events: Cards from the draw pile that have an effect on the game.
- Bird Skills (with binoculars on the back): You can acquire these using Tuururen (Observation Hours), and they help you ward off negative events.

Game Setup:

1. Place the empty bird guide on the table.
2. Lay out the Bird Skills (binoculars on the back) face up on the table.
3. Gather the following cards for the draw pile:
 - a. Bird Cards: 16 pieces
 - b. Event Cards: all cards except 1 “sneeze” card
 - c. Tuururen (Observation Hours): all cards
4. Shuffle the pile following the steps in the box below.
5. Place the draw pile on the table – you are now ready for the expedition!

Shuffling the Draw Pile:

- Shuffle the Tuururen (Observation Hours) together with the event cards and divide them into four face-down piles.
- Shuffle 4 random bird cards face down into each of the 4 piles.
- Then stack all the piles on top of each other.

Note! On the card overview, you will find an explanation for each (event) card and the number of each type included in the game. Review this carefully and keep it handy while playing.

Game Play:

Each player has 2 options during their turn:

1. Draw and play a card: The player draws a card from the draw pile and plays it immediately:
 - Bird card: Place this card in front of you. Each player has space for 2 birds.
 - Event card: Play this card according to the instructions under "Events."
 - Tuururen (Observation Hours): Use this card to save up for birds or Bird Skills. You must place it immediately on a card of your choice. If you cannot play it, place it on the discard pile. Note: you may not place Tuururen (Observation Hours) on other players' bird cards.
2. Give away a card: You may give one card per turn to a fellow birdwatcher. If you do this, you may not draw a card that round.
 - Give away a bird: You may give a bird card to another player. All Tuururen (Observation Hours) on that bird are lost. The same bird may not be given away two turns in a row.
 - Give away events: Some help cards may be passed along. See the "Card Overview" for more information.

When you have collected all the Tuururen (Observation Hours) required for a bird, you have spotted that bird. You place the bird in the bird guide and put the Tuururen (Observation Hours) on the discard pile. Note: any extra Tuururen (Observation Hours) placed also go to the discard pile. If you already have two birds in front of you and draw a third, you decide together which bird to discard. That bird is removed from the game unless you use the "Bird Whistle" card. Once a bird is placed in the guide, it cannot be undone—except if the Cuckoo visits. You may include multiple birds from the same family in the guide!

End of the Game:

You win as soon as there is at least one bird from each family included in the bird guide. Remaining cards in the draw pile count towards the final score. More details can be found under “Scoring.” If the draw pile runs out and there are not four different bird families included in the bird guide, you lose the game. If you stop to spot real birds outside, then the game has no losers!

Scoring:

Since this is a cooperative game, there is no single winner. You either all win together or the game wins over you. Calculate your score at the end of the game to see how good birdwatchers you really are. Here’s how:

- Add up all the Tuururen (Observation Hours) on the bird cards in the bird guide.
- For each remaining Tuururen (Observation Hours) card in the draw pile, you get half of its value.

Score Levels:

1. 120-180: Empty nests — not much going on here
2. 181-280: Chicks — the start is there, but it’s not safe to send you out unsupervised yet
3. 281-360: Fledglings — you’ve learned to fly but haven’t reached the top of the tree yet
4. 361-420: Skilled flyers — you confidently spread your wings!
5. 421-499: Wise owls — you’re a beacon of wisdom for other birdwatchers!
6. 500 or more: Eagle eyes — unmatched when it comes to birdwatching!

Game Variations:

Once you start mastering birdwatching, you’re ready for expeditions with more challenge! You can make the game harder with the variations below. Only the bird booklet, handkerchiefs, and sneezes change in quantity. The rest of the cards remain as in the standard game. For these more difficult variations, skip step 4 of the setup and shuffle all cards directly into one deck, without dividing the birds over four piles.

The Faithful Researchers: The Basic Expedition:

- 2 handkerchiefs & 3 sneezes
- 1 bird booklet

The Experienced Expedition Members: Ready to Take Flight:

- 1 handkerchief & 3 sneezes
- No bird booklet in the game

Card Overview

Bird Cards

You hear something, way out there! Now the real challenge is to spot the bird... You do this by collecting the number of Tuururen (Observation Hours) indicated on the card. The rarer the bird, the more hours you need to observe!

Each bird belongs to a specific family, for example, the pigeon family. Each family can be recognized by its own symbol.

Tuururen (Observation Hours)

Hours spent staring through your binoculars: that's the only way to record birds in the bird guide. On each bird card, you can see exactly how many Tuururen (Observation Hours) you need. You must use your hours wisely during this birdwatching season: your time can't be used twice. You can spend collected Tuururen (Observation Hours) to gather birds or to learn Bird Skills. You play Tuururen (Observation Hours) by placing them on one of your bird cards, one of the Bird Skills, or on an Event card.

Events

Going birdwatching in the wild is not without dangers. Various events can make your expedition a lot more complicated. The total number of cards is shown in parentheses and may vary per game variation.

- Guide (3x): You meet a guide. The guide is an expert of the area and helps you in the right direction. Take the top 3 cards from the draw pile. You may look at them and put them back in any order you choose.
- Bird Booklet (2x): In the bird booklet, you can store collected Tuururen (Observation Hours). Place the bird booklet next to the Bird Skills. You can collectively save Tuururen (Observation Hours) on the bird booklet: these hours can be used once by a player to add to a bird. This counts as one turn. After use, the booklet goes to the discard pile.
- Half-Spotted (2x): You can spot a bird once for half the Tuururen (Observation Hours). Place this card in front of you and apply it when delivering a bird. Together you choose which bird to spot with half the hours. You can use your turn to pass this card to another birdwatcher.
- Bird Whistle (1x): You can call a bird back once from the discard pile. You may play this card immediately, or keep it next to the Bird Skills until the right moment arises. Playing it from your hand costs a turn. After use, this card goes to the discard pile. Only valid for bird cards.

- Lost Binoculars (2x): Oh no, you've lost your binoculars! You cannot spot birds now. Place this card next to your birds. You cannot place Tuururen (Observation Hours) on birds until you spend 25 Tuururen (Observation Hours) on other cards, such as the bird booklet and Bird Skills.
- Cuckoo (1x): The cuckoo chases a bird out of the bird guide and takes its place! If you have multiple birds from one family, only the most recently added bird is chased away. If the guide is empty, you're lucky! The cuckoo does not count as a bird for winning the game.
- Loose Dog (2x): Every birdwatcher's nightmare: a wagging dog comes excitedly barking your way. All birds on the table get scared and immediately fly to the discard pile.
- Sneeze (3x): Ah-...Ah-...Cho! All birds get startled by your loud sneeze. If you draw this card, all your birds immediately fly to the discard pile.
- Branch (2x): CRACK. You were walking carefully but didn't see this thick branch. If you draw this card, one of your birds of choice immediately flies to the discard pile.

Bird Skills

Bird Skills are recognizable by the binocular icon on the back and help you reduce the negative effects of events. You can collectively spend Tuururen (Observation Hours) to acquire these skills. Once a Bird Skill has enough Tuururen on it, it can be used at any time. Each skill card can only be used once.

- Dog Whisperer Tear (1x) (100 Tuururen): Four-legged friends have no secrets for the dog whisperer. One look makes the dog calm down and leave. The birds don't notice anything and stay put. When playing this card, it is not necessary to move all birds to the discard pile.
- The Handkerchief (2x) (75 Tuururen): Good preparation is half the battle! You packed a handkerchief and thus prevent a loud sneeze. When you play this card, the effect of a sneeze is undone, preventing birds from flying to the discard pile.
- The Sneak (1x) (50 Tuururen): After spending so many hours in nature, you know exactly where to stand — and more importantly, where not to. Playing this card undoes the effect of the cracking branch and prevents birds from flying to the discard pile.
- The Eavesdropper (2x) (50 Tuururen): When birdwatching, a few extra good ears are always welcome. As an eavesdropper, you can hear the next bird singing from afar. When you play this card, you look for the bottom bird in the draw pile (without flipping cards) and that bird may be taken by the player who played the card.
